IN THE SENATE In the senate today Mr. Nelson, of Minnesota, called up the bill providing for the establishment of a department of commerce. He explained the necessity which, he said, existed for the passage of such a measure, and was placed with questions by several senators who said that sufficient time had not been allowed for looking into the merits of the measre. Mr. Teller criticised that feature relating to the transfer of the geologica survey, while Mr. Hale said that the bil provided for a department which ulti nately would be one of the largest in the overnment. The till finally went over

Mr. Nelson took the floor and said that the agricultural interests of the country were very well taken care of by the department of agriculture, but the other great industries were without any direct government guidance or assistance. The cessity for a bureau of commerce had ome more important and urgent every ear. The great problem, he said, was to ecure and hold greater and more exter sive markets abroad. With such a deartment we not only would be on an equality with industrial and commercial rivals, but at a great disadvantage. He orgued that such a department would protect our laboring men against im proper immigration and bring them into
